Smallpox.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—Four new cases of smallpox were reported this morning, three yesterday and none Saturday. Deaths for the past three days from that disease—3. The fumigation of Chinatown is being actively prosecuted without opposition. The officers are now at work in the block bounded by Dupont, Stockton, Pacific and Jackson streets. This is one of the worst parts of Chinese quarter, comprising the notorious Sullivan alley, and others about as bad.

This morning a Chinaman in an advanced stage of smallpox was found by the officers in a wood pile, where he had been stowed away by his countrymen, hoping to evade the search for such cases, which is carried on in connection with the work of disinfection.

From the experience of the party thus far it would appear that leprosy, the existence of which among the Chinese has been questioned by many, was much more common than supposed, as one or more lepers have been routed from their dens in almost every alley visited. In the vicinity of the present scene of operations many whites are living, principally of the most degraded class of courtesans, thieves, rounders, etc., and the health officers state that their habitations are quite as pestilential and need fumigation as much as those of the Chinese.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—A man named Pierce, a shipcarpenter, was found dead sitting in a chair with a pistol wound in his head and a Derringer lying in his lap, about noon, at 1,339 Sansome street. Deceased had evidently been dead several days.

It is claimed by the friends of Edward that he is the victim of hereditary insanity, which will probably be the defense offered.

A FEMALE WARRIOR.—Mlle. Mercus, the young lady who is playing the part of Joan of Arc in Herzegovina, is Dutch, about 30 years of age, of diminutive stature, dark, and not handsome. She has squandered the greater portion of a large fortune in the realization of her romantic dreams; nevertheless she is still in possession of more than $70,000. Her first fancy was to erect a Protestant temple at Jerusalem, in front of the monument supposed to be Christ's tomb. The temple, which cost her £14,000, still exists. Her present ambition is to command a battery of artillery, and she recently gave £1,200 for the purchase of guns, but the gentleman intrusted with the money disappeared, and nothing further has been heard of him. The extraordinary lady is not admired, having supported the Paris Commune, and approved of the Archbishop's assassination. She spends her time running after battlefield adventures whenever they are to be encountered.

An indignation meeting was held at Port Townsend on the 21st concerning the action of the officers of the Dakota for introducing smallpox in that place.

The bark Victor, which arrived at Port Gamble on the 19th with smallpox on board, was, by order of the mill company, sent back to Port Townsend during the night, and her officers and crew put in quarantine.

The crew of 200 Mongolians which Mr. Green imported from Portland to do his hop picking got miffed, and have folded their tents and stolen away. Indians are employed there exclusively now. There was a slight frost throughout the valley on the 19th, and the hops were slightly nipped.

Gov. Moses Brayman, wife and daughter, arrived at Boise City on the 17th inst., from Wisconsin. The new Governor, according to the Statesman, is good looking and polite, and is about 65 years of age. Governor Brayman served through the war, was under Grant in all his campaigns the first two years, and attained the rank of general. He is a lawyer by profession and has been a popular editor in Illinois, where he has spent the better portion of his life. He was well received.

The entrance at the mouth of Roger river is easy for vessels of 12 feet draft on tide. The steamer Cont... has taken several cargoes of lumber this season to San Francisco. The bar is usually smooth, the channel plain, and since the mill company started the steamer has made quite regular trips.

The Albany Democrat, in referring to the Hayes and Wheeler meeting at that place on Friday, says: Hon. M. C. George made the speech of the evening. This was the largest meeting that has been held in this city for a long time, and was a magnificent testimonial on the part of the people of this city to the musical talent composing the Glee Club.

COL. BOB INGERSOLL.

He is middle-aged, of rather prepossessing appearance, with an air of decided self-confidence, above middle height, very stout, red-faced and good-natured looking. He has a large round bald head, a hearty, open, healthy, clean-shaven face and dresses in plain black. His ringing electric voice and his striking gestures magnetize—I use the word advisedly—magnetize you. When he lifted that big paw of his high above his bald head and reached his climax of eulogium for Blaine at the Cincinnati convention in the words: "A man who has the grandest combination of heart, conscience and brain beneath the flag—a leader of leaders!" the great body of men from all sections of the country and with differing candidates to fight for rose to a man and cheered the magnificent oratory of this heretofore unknown speaker. The fellows who were fighting Blaine felt like hiding themselves as little dogs barking around the edges and snarling at the heels of a giant.

He has practiced in Peoria for many years, and built up a great practice in the surrounding courts. He lives in a magnificent house, with his wife and several children, and presents to the world the spectacle of a most exemplary and loving husband and tender and affectionate parent. He has been the architect of his brother's fortunes, too, for the people of the district, fearing to honor the man whom they personally loved and respected for his marvelous ability, lest it would be an overlooking of his one damning fault, sent his brother, who had given no mark of ability theretofore, to Congress. He turned out to be a good-natured wit—"witty himself and the cause of wit in others." He was the author of the celebrated decision from the Speaker's chair that the word "slangwhanging," while it was not unparliamentary, was "certainly pungent." He it was who presided as a king of the game which ex-minister Schenck has since made famous, and Fernando Wood has paid so dearly for in playing with him, and Gen. Logan has abandoned for a Sunday school, and Hallet Kilbourne has left off while he sues the Democratic Congress for putting him in jail, and John G. Schumaker (the level-headed of them all) has forsaken while he spends the $250,000 he got out of Pacific Mail.

A daring artist has sent one canvas at which all women want to look, and at which all masculine eyes do level their most critical stare, while the ladies pass it with averted glance, and immediately seek some corner from which they may regard it without detection. Of course I follow suit, but will some one please tell me why we may go among all the marbles, discussing their defects and excellencies, while this picture is seemingly avoided, and some of my good friends will shrug their shoulders when I mention it. It shows, in a dusty background, the great god Pan, sitting throned beneath embowering trees. Before him are two Bacchantes. One, half reclining, turns her back to us, and, indolently raising her handsome head, watches another, who stands, well, as Eve did during her first day in Paradise, simply clothed in her own loveliness; and this Bacchante is lovely, with all the grace of form and color which makes a beautiful woman the fairest thing under heaven. In her uplifted hand she bears a basket of grapes. This she offers to Pan, with a look such as Cleopatra might have given Antony when she dissolved and drank her pearl to show some hint of her boundless tenderness. For the reason aforesaid I have not given to this picture the attention which its skillful painting so richly deserves; but half a glance will show how exactly the artist has caught the flesh tints, and how exquisite a light he has thrown over the principal figures. The catalogue places its price at $10,000 in gold.—Adna S. H. in the Cleveland Plaindealer.

There is every indication that the Oregon State Fair will be the greatest success this year. The success of Beck & Waldman is due to the fact that they are offering clothing at very low prices.

LETTER FROM HONOLULU.

EFFECT OF THE HAWAIIAN TREATY—HAWAIIAN LEGISLATORS.

HONOLULU, Aug. 22, 1876.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The all absorbing topic at the present date is the question of reciprocity with the United States. While its passage will in a measure benefit the people of this sea-girt kingdom, it will not, as has been frequently asserted, have the effect of greatly increasing, perhaps doubling, the production of rice and sugar. By the passage of the treaty the estimated yearly loss of revenue to the Hawaiian treasury would be nearly if not quite $60,000. What plan to adopt to make up this deficiency is the riddle over which our financiers are puzzling their brains. The natives are laboring under as much taxation as they can possibly bear, while it is hardly to be expected that the moneyed men (chiefly the poor missionaries) who, as a rule, occupy government offices, have any great desire to impose any new burthen on their shoulders. One plan has been advanced, that of taxing incomes, but, I haven't the least doubt, that when it came to the point, the number of small incomes would be somewhat surprising. When it is a case of cent per cent., the pious, God-fearing Christian of Hawaii will draw as fine a line as any Jewish money lender on the face of the globe.

The principal reason why the mass of the American people so warmly seconded the idea of reciprocity, is because it is generally believed that the ultimate result will be the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the United States. The kingdom is already heavily in debt, with no possible way of paying it, and the passage of the treaty will greatly increase its indebtedness by the loss of the revenue which they at present receive.

In point of fact, these islands virtually do belong to the United States. The distance between Honolulu and the Pacific coast is comparatively trivial in these days of rapid ocean travel. The greater part of the productions of this group is shipped to the Pacific coast. They are dependent to a great extent on the merchants of San Francisco for markets for their produce, and to come to a fair view of the matter, they rely upon the friendship and support of America for their existence, precarious as it is, as an independent nation to-day. Situated as they are in the center of the great Western ocean, with the immense commerce that is springing up between the Australian colonies, China and the United States, they cannot fail to be, at no very distant day, of the greatest possible advantage to any nation, commercially or otherwise, who may obtain a permanent footing on them. England and France have attempted at different times to secure the balance of power, but have so far signally failed. It is true that this group was once offered by King Kamehameha to Great Britain, but the offer was refused. Then, again, an attempt was made by France to seize the Islands by force, and had really captured Honolulu, but this embroglio was settled by a certain sum of money paid to the commander of the French fleet that made the capture.

If England could now obtain the advantage that they once were offered by the cession of these islands to their rule, no doubt she would eagerly accept it. All that is wanting to complete the chain that she has forged, from Australia on the south to British Columbia on the north, is this link midway between her possessions. With the chain completed she could hold absolute sway over the commerce of the Pacific, and in case of war with the United States, stretch a line of vessels that could blockade every port on the whole Pacific coast. Far-seeing statesmen, even in the time of Clay and Webster, perceived the immense advantages that would be derivable by the possession of this group, and strongly urged Congress to take the steps necessary to secure them. But no measures were taken, and now when the opportunity is presented for so doing, it will be a grand and perhaps irreparable mistake on the part of the United States Congress if they do not follow the advice of statesmen of fifty years ago, and pass this treaty of reciprocity.

It is evident that the flag of some foreign power will sooner or later float over Hawaii. The native race is steadily, rapidly, surely following close on the track of many of their brethren amongst the many isles of these tropic seas—fading from the face of the earth as a nation. Ninety-eight years ago the population of the Sandwich Islands numbered more than 500,000 of pure native blood. To-day the aggregate number of souls, including whites, half-whites and foreigners of all nationalities, falls short of 55,000. The hand of death is mercilessly smiting them, and when the last Hawaiian will have laid his bones with those of his fathers, the noblest, kindest, most generous of all the semi-barbaric races will have perished from among the records of nations.

The Hawaiian Legislature as at present constituted consists of two branches—the Representatives, numbering twenty-eight, chosen by the people, and the Nobles, appointed by the King, numbering twenty-five, including the Attorney-General and the Ministers of Foreign Affairs, Finance and Interior. The utmost antagonism exists between the two factions; one side watching as a cat does a mouse for the slightest infringement or breach of parliamentary rules, or order, committed by the other, and as the majority of the members, judging from the insane measures that are constantly being brought up, are more fit for the corridors and cells of a lunatic asylum than for the halls of legislation, you can easily imagine what a great benefit these worthy law makers are to the interests of the people of this kingdom. A brief mention of a few of the bills that have been presented before the House will probably give you an idea of how they "do things" here when in legislative council. One worthy Representative proposed that each member be furnished with 100 postage stamps, but finding, after three days' discussion, that it was impossible to secure the quota of votes necessary, he generously reduced the number of stamps and asked that 99 be furnished, which was passed forthwith. A heated debate arose on the question whether the assembly should be provided with five or ten pounds of ice per day. The sums of six days rose and declined before the legislators came to an understanding on the matter, and then concluded to split the difference and call it seven and a half pounds per day. Another Honorable presented a bill requesting that the Sergeant-at-arms be instructed to provide the Assembly with cheese and crackers, but failing in finding enough members present who were in favor of a free lunch system, he tightened the rope that held up his pantaloons and crept into his seat with a look upon his sun-burned visage strongly expressive of a man with a bad attack of the colic.

Our port presents rather a lively appearance at this time, from 20 to 25 large vessels loading or waiting for orders. Four, the Falkinbury, Mattie Maclean, Cleta and Camoma are bound for Oregon, the two latter coming from England, with part freight for Honolulu merchants, and the rest for Portland dealers. The weather is unusually warm, the thermometer ranging as high as 90°. Business is rather dull; everything apparently hanging back until news is received of the treaty, which will probably be in a day or two. ÆNONE.

The English universities are the product of government, yours of private munificence. That among us is almost unknown. The general notion of an Englishman when he gets rich is to found an estate and benefit his family. The general notion of an American when fortunate is to do something for the good of the people, and from which benefits shall continue to flow. The latter is the noble ambition!

The Paris Evenement tells this story as typical of the French character in politics: X meets Z on the Boulevard and says to him: "My dear fellow, I've picked up a prize!" "What is it?" "I've bought the finest air-gun you ever saw." "What do you want with it?" "Nothing at all." "Then, why did you buy it?" "Because it's against the law."

WASHINGTON COUNTY FAIR.

First Day.

To compare great things with small, I should say that if one can judge of the carcasses by the gathering of buzzards, then the present congregation of those who make money from fair goers is a sign of an unusual turnout at the tenth annual exhibition of the Washington County Agricultural Society, which commenced this morning at a very early hour.

For a month past the turfmen have made the grounds quite lively, having the largest and best lot of animals ever trained on the grounds, especially of young horses, but of these your readers have already been quite well informed.

During the past week the number of those living at the Fair grounds has been materially increased by the addition of hucksters, showmen, hackmen, etc., and last but by no means least in numbers, the "festive gambolier" and the small fry accompanying him of all grades, from the high-toned faro dealer down to the one-horse capper and pickpocket. We have a bountiful supply of faro, rondo, roulette, chuck-a-luck and every other game forbidden by the statutes, as well as a host of others unknown to the statute-makers. These things having been really suppressed at the State Fair, and the Albany Fair being defunct, the only way for a large class of speculators to escape Portland's penalty for vagrancy is to earn their visible means of support this week. Accordingly their nets are spread in every nook and corner, the spiders sit quietly by watching their skillful handiwork, and woe to the unlucky wight who is tempted, by the glittering piles of money, to think he can get some of it without an equivalent. It looks so easy to beat those well dressed gentlemen, with big diamond pins, out of their freely displayed wealth that many a green one—and many a dry one, too—will try his luck. When he quits flat broke he complains of being robbed, but I want to know if the transaction would be any better if it had terminated as he intended, instead of as the other party meant it should. No one loses his money at any gambling trick unless he tries to get the best of some one else, and he has first his own dishonesty of which to complain. I don't say this to excuse the blacklegs and loafers who infest every such gathering, but because those who are often loudest mouthed in condemning them, admit their own ill intentions and still receive sympathy for their losses instead of censure for their cupidity; and because it is too evident that all these things are well patronized or they would not swarm so thick.

SHOWS

Promise to be of a better grade, than on some past occasions. The first on the ground is that of the Coplen Brothers, who dug out of less than two rods square in Stevens county, W. T., bones enough to fit up a first class exhibition. This is one thing that is well worth patronizing, for apart from the gratification of viewing the largest known bones on the earth, there is the scientific point of view, and also local pride that on our own Columbia's banks have been discovered the remains of an animal different from any yet known to have existed, eclipsing in size mammoth and mastodon, and still so recent as to be found within twelve feet of the surface of a spring, along with arrow heads and certain signs of man. Such is the Bos Eliphas Columbianus, as named by Prof. Harvey, and well named I think. A half hour spent in contemplating these monster evidences of the earth's life, will give any one a better idea of the world we live in. We are all agog to see Montgomery Queen's circus. If he comes no farther off his bills than average circus managers he must have a big show, for the bills are grand.

T. A. Wood is on hand with his tent of curiosities and performers, and the list promises to be along before to-morrow evening.

The society have done a good thing in offering a premium for a brass band, as we all love music, which has heretofore been much missed. The Hillsboro brass band will enter for the premium whether any others do or not, and if any others get the blue ribbon it will be a good band that does it.

They have made another good move in increasing the purse for two mile heats running race to $500, which will justify the starting of such horses as Bigham, Butralph, Ryestraw, and other well known horses which are not on these grounds at present, and will make that the great race of the week.

By the way, what is the matter with the railroad company, that they don't run their special train on Friday, which would surely be the best day of the fair if they did?

EXHIBITS

Are being made slowly, though all sorts of articles are coming in from all directions. As soon as the stock is all provided for, and articles in the Pavilion safe, the secretary will be crowded with applicants, and as soon as that is over I may give you a lot of statistics.

THE RACES.

A single dash, free to all, came off at 2 P. M. Coggan entered br. s. Osceola, Young, b. m. Rosa Mansfield; Tennant, dark b. s. Tom Merry. Osceola had, the inside, Tom Merry second and the mare outside. After three unsuccessful attempts to start, they sent them off, Merry and Rosa together and Osceola about 50 feet behind. At the quarter stake Tom Merry led the mare about a length, Osceola losing ground. Before reaching the half mile Osceola took the suds and flew the track, behaving very badly, while the other two went around the track in the same position, Tom Merry winning the heat and race, Rosa Mansfield a good second. Time, 1:48.

The people are coming in fast, the weather delightful, and the prospects good for the best fair the society have given in Washington county. Many attractions are already on the ground, among them Major Wood, who occupies his old stand with a few selections of his noted curiosities, which he is running in connection with a variety troupe, consisting of the sword swallower, character singer, etc. To-morrow the circus will be here, and perhaps nearly all of Washington county to see it. To-morrow's race comes off at 2 P. M. Running race for three-year-olds, horse, mare or gelding.

THE WEALTH OF BRAZIL.—All intelligent travelers who have visited Brazil speak in the most glowing terms of the country. Prof. Agassiz regarded it as the most productive and interesting country on the globe, and the one in which it is the easiest to obtain a livelihood. Some who have sailed up the Amazon declare that a vessel can be loaded with Brazil nuts at an expense of only a few cents per bushel. These constitute a valuable article of commerce, while the oil extracted from them is very desirable. All the tropical fruits are produced in Brazil almost without cultivation. The soil in many parts of the country will produce twenty successive crops of cotton, tobacco or sugar cane without the application of manure. No country in the world approaches the land of Dom Pedro in the variety of its forest productions. Professor Agassiz states that he saw 117 different kinds of valuable woods that were cut from a piece of land not half a mile square. They represented almost every variety of color, and many of them were capable of receiving a high polish. One tree furnishes wax that is used for candles; another a pith that is used for food; and still another yields a juice which is used in the place of intoxicating liquor. There is a single variety of palm from which the natives obtain food, drink, clothing, bedding, cordage, fishing tackle, medicine, and the material they manufacture into dwellings, weapons, harmonious and musical instruments. Doubtless the day is not far distant when the valuable woods of Brazil will be used far various useful and ornamental purposes. Brazil is not only a "wooden country," but a country that produces the most beautiful woods in the world.

It is not true that many of the anonymous contributions to the conscience fund are attributed to Samuel J. Tilden. The treasury authorities say that nearly all the notes accompanying inclosures of this character are extremely brief, and they feel positive that Sammy would at least have covered 20 or 30 pages of foolscap with explanations if he had sent anything in.—Washington Chronicle.

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 26, 1876.

OREGON RAILWAYS.

Yesterday we published a lengthy communication from A. Villard, Esq., to the people of Oregon, on the subject of railway tariffs in this State. This communication appears to be, in the main, candid and fair, so far as pertains to the facts the writer deals with, that is, the receipts and expenditures of the railways of which he is president. From Mr. Villard's connection with these enterprises, he has a right to expect a fair hearing at the hands of our people. The investment of the Germans in Oregon railways has been anything but profitable, and it is not to be wondered at that their representative feels called upon to guard them against further diminution of the small income they receive from so large an investment. The propriety of any action by the legislature, at this time, fixing the rate of charges for freight and passengers on the railways in operation in Oregon, is, in our opinion, very questionable. What Mr. Villard states respecting the income of these roads is only what has been known, in a general way, to well-informed persons, for a long time. No one who has given the matter any attention can have supposed the roads were paying property.

But when Mr. Villard goes beyond this branch of the subject and enters upon a discussion of the general question of the right and policy of regulating tariffs of freight and fare on railways by legislation hisper... fails to commend itself to the ... with so great force. The courts of sev... and of the United States, where the ... has come up for decision, do not ... with him on the legal points involved, and the States that have had most experience in such matters are equally at variance with him on the question of policy. Some of them have attempted too much, have carried the matter too far, and concluded the better course was to fall ... to moderate conservative ground. Mr. Villard's idea that what he is ... to sneer at as "granger legislation" has proved a failure is about as far ... of the way as his views on the legal ... involved.

The people of Oregon, and especially ... of the west-side counties, will be gratified at the assurance Mr. Villard gives of the intention of himself and those he represents to build the west-side road ... to Junction at an early day. ... would be glad it were earlier. They ... appreciate also the promise of continued ... through co-operation with the ... Pacific, and wish the promise had ... in it. But they are hardly ... to be very much influenced ... by the threats with which ... invidious compliments to their ... and honorable disposition, ... ly interspersed. It is well ... though in very questionable ... him to indicate the intention of ... to abandon all purpose of ... any more railways in Oregon ... the legislature should exercise ... right to regulate freight and fare tariffs ... when he goes the length of de... that in case such legislation is had ... will not be another mil laid by ... so long as he and his friends can ... the propriety of his language ... be merely questionable. We ... used to make great allowance for ... ances of people who have been ... worked into parting with their ... without sufficient consideration, ... the German creditors of the Oregon railways have been; and we trust the ... peculiar style in which Mr. Villard discourses on the condition of affairs will not be allowed to influence any legislator or shipper to the injury of the ... companies. They doubtless feel not a little chagrined to find themselves ... and injured; but the farmers and ... of Oregon are not the people who did it. Let the German creditors ... of the road look with confidence to the people of Oregon for justice, ... not that confidence be disappointed. But when they have complaints to make of having put in two dollars where ... security for but one, they would ... only that justice which they ask, if they ... pains to show whose fraud it ... that supplemented their own folly in the ... by which their money was taken from them.

SCHOOL BOOKS.

The teachers of Salem have united in petition, praying the legislature not to ... any law abandoning the principle of uniformity in text books for the public schools, and setting forth their reasons at length. The progress of education during the three years of uniformity, is pointed to as showing the benefits to be derived from the system, which enable teachers to grade their schools as to give much more attention to each pupil than they could otherwise do. Among those whose occupation give them the best opportunities for forming correct conclusions on the subject, there is none, so far as we are aware, to question the advantages of the uniformity system. But some think that sufficient is gained in this direction when the districts are required, in some way, to fix upon a uniform system of books, so that in each district there is a system of text books adopted, though the districts may differ from each other. This plan, doubtless, has some advantages, but there are grounds of objection also. The directors of the districts, as a general rule, are not so well qualified to select judiciously amongst the various text books in use, as a board consisting of the county superintendents. But the strongest objection to this plan is, that a great many poor people must of necessity make frequent changes of residence, and in moving from one district to another will have to buy new books for their children to use in the new district. This entails a burden which many are ill able to bear. Instances of this hardship are referred to in the petition of the Salem teachers as having come under their immediate observation. It is urged, too, by some, but with how much truth we are unable to state, that school books are bought lower when a given set of them is adopted throughout the State. On the other hand many contend that the plan of State uniformity fosters monopoly and makes school books more expensive. This argument is met by contrasting the price of readers and spellers in this State with the price paid for those in common use before the uniformity law. A set of the readers and spellers now in use in our schools costs $4 10, while a set of Wilson's readers and spellers is catalogued at $5 60—a difference of 27 per cent in favor of uniformity. But there are so many things to be taken into consideration—number, size and quality of books, etc.—that this comparison is liable to mislead. The probabilities are that so far as the price of books is concerned there is not much importance to be attached to it in determining for or against uniformity.

The books adopted by our State are furnished as follows: Clark & Maynard furnish Practical arithmetic and one book of history; Iverson, Blakeman & Co. Higher arithmetic, Universal History, Book-keeping and copy-books; A. L. Bancroft & Co., Readers and Spellers; Sower, Potts & Co., Mental arithmetic, Algebra and Geometry; A. S. Barnes & Co., Geography, Grammar, and Natural Sciences; Eldridge & Co., composition. Nims Bros., Botany. Most of the books, if we are correctly informed, are regarded by teachers as good selections, though objections are made to some of them.

When Mr. Blaine was conspicuous as a candidate for the Presidency, a great cry was raised by the Democracy that he was a stock gambler and had dealt extensively in wildcat railway stock. The story turned out to be false in all material particulars. Mr. Tilden, the Democratic candidate, has accumulated a vast fortune, mainly by questionable transactions in railway stocks, in the course of which he has been both bull and bear by turns, to cheat honest subscribers and investors out of their property. But we hear never a word of denunciation against him from the set that hounded Blaine. The most brilliant orator in the Democratic party aptly styled Tilden a "railway wrecker," but neither that appropriate title nor the facts which make it appropriate, are sufficient to set the bayers of Blaine to baying Tilden.

The temptation to engage in the illicit distillation of whisky seems irresistible, and every now and then some new plan for evading the inquisitive vigilance of the revenue officers is discovered. The last one is that of turning innocent vinegar manufactures into wicked stills for the production of "Mountain Dew," or real old Irish, or genuine Scotch, or some other favorite brand of liquor.

A fine sense of the fitness of things suggested the reference of the bill regulating the practice of dentistry, now pending in the Legislature, to the committee on internal improvements. Whoever introduced that bill, if not a wit himself, has at least been the cause of it, which is said to be the next best thing.

Notice the card of the committee, with regard to sending fruit to the Centennial, and bring in your fruit promptly.

RUPTURE!

No More Metallic Trusses Used!

No More Suffering from Iron Hoops or Steel Springs!

THE SUPERIORITY OF OUR ELASTIC Trusses over the rigid Iron Hoops, which in former days were the only resource of the ruptured, admits of NO ARGUMENT.

By means of this appliance the pressure on the Rupture itself can be made uniform and continuous, and to the extent required in each case, until a slight inflammation of the parts is secured, and the consequent effusion of lymph which is essential to a healing process, and from this time to the conclusion of the treatment, the pressure, being entirely within the control of the patient, can be lessened daily as the adhesion progresses and the body becomes sound. All cases of reducible Hernia are permanently relieved without regard to the age of the patient or the duration of the injury, while in its action it is wholly free from all the cruelty that has characterized the treatment of the malady with tortuous Metal Trusses from the earliest age to the present day. Your attention is called to the following facts:

1st—There are no springs to press upon or to injure the back.
2d—It is simple in construction, and not liable to get out of order.
3d—This instrument is worn with perfect ease while riding horseback.
4th—The Rupture is retained and the pressure the same while in any position.
5th—It has none of the injurious results of metallic Trusses.
6th—It will perform radical cures when all others fail.
7th—It is worn with ease and comfort night and day, which cannot be said truthfully of an metal Truss whatever.

Experience shows that all tempered spring Trusses necessarily press upon and often disease parts of the body that before were in a perfectly healthy condition. Lumbago and other equally distressing ailments are not unfrequently the outgrowth of such pressure, and in view of this fact it becomes a matter of decided consequence to avoid like calamities, if possible.

Examination Free. The closest scrutiny of physicians solicited.

Beware of Bogus articles called Elastic Trusses. Dr. ROWE, Inventor and Patentee of Elastic Trusses. All parties infringing either by sale or manufacture, will be dealt with in such manner as the law provides.

Glorious autumnal weather

Everybody goes to Hillsboro now

The wheat season has fairly commenced

The river has almost reached the low water mark

Since the arrival of so many vessels at this port there is a remarkable degree of activity manifested along the wharves

Men of genius always squander their money which accounts for the impecunious condition of newspaper reporters

People are always advising young men to settle down It would be as well however for them to inaugurate a new order of things by settling up

It is stated that felt hats will not be popular during the winter but smashed stovepipes will be generally worn as soon as the campaign fully opens up

Hon A Hinman whose store, in Forest Grove was burglarized several weeks ago has recently replaced his safe with one of Hall's fire and burglar proof

Now the chill winds of autumn sigh mournfully, the leaves begin to fall, and the head of the house sits around the stove and wonders who is going to trust him

SALEM LETTER.

SALEM, Sept 24 1876

The die having been cast and Gov L F Grover having been elected Oregon's United States Senator for the ensuing six years, matters and things in general have quieted down amazingly and scores of politicians from abroad having either been defeated in their plans or accomplished a much desired object; have folded their tents and quietly left the field. It has been a struggle of more than usual perseverance on both sides and in common with the majority we rejoice that it is over, and hope now to see both houses of the Legislature settle down to their work and attend to the business before them and go home contented with what they have done

SOCIAL EVENTS

Attendant upon the biennial session of the Oregon Legislature are the various social events of the season We hear it whispered in private circles that our Senator-elect will at an early day give a grand reception and ball at the Chemeketa Hotel, which of course takes precedence over all events of like nature The ladies are on the tiptoe of expectation as visions of elegant toilettes float across their imaginative minds In addition to this there are vague rumors of other and like pleasant social gatherings. Thursday evening last was a festive occasion among the numerous representatives of the.

GILBERT ESTATE.

The suburban mansion of I N Gilbert, Esq, was comfortably well filled with the relations together with a very few intimate friends The occasion was the marriage of Miss Emma, daughter of the respected host, to Frank N Gilbert, book-keeper in the large dry goods establishment of Breyman Bros in this city Rev P S Knight of the Congregational church, was the officiating minister A B Crossman Esq and Miss Linnie McCully acting as attendants The festivities were prolonged to a late hour and numerous were the good wishes bestowed upon the happy couple when at length the wedding party broke up

A SHEET AND PILLOW CASE PARTY

Was something out of the usual line which took place at the residence of Mrs Belle W Cooke, on Friday evening last, in honor of the anniversary of the birth of her eldest daughter, Nettie The young folks turned out quite liberally, and, without exception, expressed themselves well pleased with the entertainment of the evening The great attraction of the week however and the one in which the dear public were more generally interested and that announced for weeks previous as the acme of expectant delight of every youngster in the city, was

MONTGOMERY QUEEN S CIRCUS,

Whose monster tent was spread immediately back of Parmenter & Babcock's furniture factory, on North Mill creek The street parade was very good—what there was of it—and served to attract many to the afternoon and evening performances The former was well attended, while the latter was simply a perfect jam Between 2 000 and 2 500 people were undoubtedly present and the universal verdict was that Queen s circus surpassed by far any and all that have previously visited this State The attendant thousands at the State Fair will have an opportunity of witnessing it in increased grandeur There appears to be considerable

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE

Every member of the legislature as well as a number of private citizens received yesterday printed invitations to be present at the Baptist church to hear Rev Addison Jones discourse in opposition to a bill now pending before the Oregon Legislature to assess and collect taxes on church property a large number availing themselves of the privilege Bishop Morris officiated morning and evening at the Episcopal church administering the Holy Sacrament of the Lord s Supper after the morning service We understand regular services will be held hereafter unless otherwise specified Rev P S Knight of the Congregational church answered (just conclusively this evening the atheist's query "Is there a God?" REFORM SCHOOLS—HOW TO BE ESTABLISHED AND CONDUCTED

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Although the subject of "our reform school" has been very constantly in my mind during my absence from Oregon together with the purpose of writing concerning it various causes have conspired to prevent me both from gathering the materials and of putting the somewhat limited harvest into written shape It is very hard for the inhabitant of our free and easy America especially for one from the less populous parts of it to realize the circumlocution and discouragement in the way of any special inquirer Sometimes turning and twisting about several days in order to obtain the proper authority to visit a prison or reformatory one will find on application at the door that it is an off day for visitors or the proper official is absent or if admitted the atmosphere of busy care and haste and official dignity is so great one hardly dares more than the formal tour through yard and ward I should perhaps qualify by saying that one bent on a definite and exclusive mission and thinking of nothing else as Dr Wines did two years since could possibly with patient continuance effect everything but the endeavor at second hand as I must necessarily make it is not easy

The first experience has been as a delegate from our State (by governmental appointment) to the National Prison Congress held in June, in New York city I would gladly were it now in place, speak of this Congress at large. In my report which will be made to His Excellency Gov Grover I shall endeavor to indicate the very important line of subjects discussed A very considerable portion of the meetings however were taken up with the subject of juvenile reform Papers were read on what is called the Family system, the Union of State, with private control terms of restraint and industrial training, and the discussions ensuing, served to bring out in strong light the prevailing principles and average experience of workers in the arduous field of reformation Let me endeavor briefly to name some of these or rather, the impressions left upon my mind from hearing them

It is evident that all who have any connection with crime and criminal classes are under conviction of the paramount importance of juvenile reformation and the early care for criminal tendencies in society The only assurance of diminution in crime is in this direction The same sum expended by the State upon neglected or vicious children which is expended in convicting and punishing adults would so speedily reduce the number of criminals that such expenditure would prove to be close economy, financially I say the same sum, do we sufficiently realize that in even the most enlightened communities (as to crimes and prisons) the proportion expended for reformatories is only a small fraction of the total crime expense? I believe this would be true even including the cost of public schools which may be indirectly classed as preventive institutions The impression seemed to prevail throughout the meetings that the public needs a thorough shaking to awaken it into simple common sense upon the subject of crime and its natural history It is apparent that criminals are made not born that our chief care should be to prevent this crime-making in early stages and it is fatuous to vote the expenses of police criminal court and prison and at the same time refuse to care for the classes who daily become criminals because neither restraint nor education can reach them

The application with us in Oregon is quite near at hand An institution should certainly not be wanting from any penny wise consideration of expense I am sure our citizens only await a carefully chosen plan of action to give it their hearty endorsement as far as needed expenditure is concerned

2 The discussion elicited the old fact that theory and practice are quite different things Further than this it strikingly showed that good systems fail by careless administration or from neglecting details, and the wisest experience is thrown away by mingling with a single false principle, or laboring under the limitations which public ignorance as embodied in law or custom may set up I feel called upon to say to all friends of the juvenile reform cause that here is the chief danger against which we must provide Let us indeed, frame a law as carefully as we can and provide handsomely for the maintenance of a reform school but its success or measurable failure will depend upon the administration and chiefly upon the superintendent The man with head and heart with experience also, and untrammeled in his just rights of jurisdiction, can alone carry forward the work As he gains our confidence he can suggest the changes in the law needed I can say of this subject what I have often said of Normal schools We do not need buildings first but the right man Such a man will (to use a medical phrase) secrete about him—develop by his own energy and influence and from the confidence he inspires—all needed machinery for the undertaking Whatever plan of a law is presented to our legislature should embody careful provisions for the selection of this man and above all not stint his salary nor hedge his office If at all fit for the place he should have the entire appointment of all officials and be left largely to himself as to principles and details of management

3 With this provision (i e as to intelligent and experienced administration) the Congress was wholly in favor of having what are called reformatories as far as possible non penal in character The best institutions in the country have no high fences no barred windows They free themselves as far as possible from the atmosphere of punishment or restraint an just liberty In some States the very name of reformatory is abandoned and such institutions are a part of the public school system, or so closely welded to that system that the difference is not marked The very forms of commitment are divested of a penal character Now is public sentiment in Oregon prepared to entertain such methods in reclaiming the waifs and neglected children within her borders? If it is not prepared to put faith in these higher principles then we may have a new kind of prison but we may not look for any great degree of reclaimed humanity Let me carefully guard my words from misapprehension The school is not to be a weak and coddling thing It must be clothed with power and have at near command the full means of discipline and restraint Its officers however in the degree of excellence will hold this power so reserved that liberty will be the rule and the liberty to do right will be the highest source of self reform

Passing to some experience here in Great Britain, let me in confirmation of what I have just said allude to a visit in Edinburgh to what is called the Original Ragged school founded by the eminent Dr Guthrie This is essentially a reform school under private management supported by voluntary contributions and by the state (for all commitments at the hands of the government) Here were over a hundred boys receiving lodging food and instruction both school and industrial The building was in the most crowded part of Edinburgh, Auld Reekie as Burns called it and the boys within certain limits can play in the streets I saw nothing to suggest a prison and the superintendent gave this valuable testimony I have been in this work twenty five years and my experience is the more liberty I give the boys the less trouble I have in managing them Desertions are very infrequent although the children know the difficulty of finding a deserter in the wynds and nine storied tenements of the city

In Great Britain the common system of support and management is as indicated above the government commits or sends children paying a stipulated sum for the care of each child The right of inspection is also carefully exercised But the management and more than half the expense lies upon private philanthropy This fact was commented upon at the Prison Congress and the general opinion seemed to be that in the United States where ... ... appropriations of public funds ... such a combination would not ... ... would ... ... the public care ... ... the parental and private ...

In London I have conversed with ... intelligent people upon this topic ... the same principles and cautions and ... seen anxious to guard others from feeling that large results will follow small and ... or short continued effort The best ... and patience wisdom and economy are needed, and all labor is thrown away unless our treatment is from the first shaped to bring about self respect in the boy or girl and ... self reformation love of work and of doing right for its own sake A change in the mo... tives of a whole life is the object to be attained This must be a work of time, It cannot be accomplished with prison allowance and discipline Much less can it be accomplished by men who make a show of using only moral means and lack the high qualities of government and character without which their efforts only procure contempt

It is necessary to reiterate these facts to the public and prepare its mind I as to the magnitude of the undertaking and of the sums necessary in carrying forward a true system with industrial appliances and skilled guardians As to the economy of such care from any just view of public policy The heads of public charities and of city governments here unite in saying that any sum expended in saving children from the gutters and streets and a life of crime is an economy Says one of these Thirty pounds expended on a child at the school of reform will probably save ten times that amount in after years to say nothing of its preventing an almost inconceivable amount of misery and wretchedness

From all this it would seem that we should endeavor to procure from the legislature a bill embodying as its leading provisions a generous support and high humanitarian guardianship Large buildings are not needed but large souled men to guide, control and lift the young unfortunate into manliness and virtue The general government of the school should be removed as far as possible from the vicissitudes of politics and although a State institution should be mainly dependent upon the good will of society and the constant care of philanthropic people for its success Should a bill of such character be brought before our legislature we shall, after some patience and the inevitable mistakes of new undertakings have reason at last to rejoice that crime and pauperism are receiving a check at the most practical point and in the divine way

OFFICIAL REPORT

OF THE ENGINEERS AND FIRE AND WATER COMMITTEE OF PORTLAND TO TEST THE EFFICIENCY OF A BABCOCK FIRE EXTINGUISHER SEPT 23, 1876

PORTLAND OGN Sept. 25, 1876

At the request of Mr S D Stevens traveling agent of the Babcock Engines and Extinguishers we the joint committee of engineers and fire and water of the City of Portland attended a test of one of the Extinguishers on the Skating Rink grounds Saturday evening Sept 23 1876 Chief Engineer Lyon took charge and after seeing that there were a large number of dry goods boxes piled up (shavings having been thrown in), he directed that the contents of a five gallon can of coal oil should be thrown into and over the boxes The pile having been ignited by a torch and allowed time to get under good headway Mr Stevens was told to play away which he did and subdued the flames in about one minute The pile was allowed to rekindle a second time and burn until some of the boards were burned through, and the whole well charred he was then ordered to try it again and a second time brought it under being ordered to stop he again let it get under full headway and at the order from the Chief a third time put it out

We consider the test to be in every way satisfactory and believe that if they were in more general use a great many fires could be prevented We also think they would be of benefit on Hook and Ladder Trucks when they reached the fire before it had gained too much headway

CHERRY SLUG.

In walking through town I have seen the work of the greatest enemy of the cherry tree that is the cherry slug I will describe it so the lovers of cherries may know and take it in time It makes its appearance about the 1st of June You will see the leaves of your cherry tree having rather a shabby look and when you come to take a closer observation you will see that the under side of the leaves have all the pulp or flesh part of the leaf eaten away and nothing but the fibres left The cherry slug is a small greenish worm When full grown they are from one-fourth to three eighths of an inch long, and covered over with a slime or snail like coat To ... In the heat of the day take slack lime get under your tree and throw the lime up wards so it will strike the under side of the leaves where the slug always stays Every one that gets the lime on its back will be dead in one minute Ashes will have the same effect but will take a longer time Common dust from under the tree will also kill them This must be done in the heat of the day G W WALLING

European Grain Market.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The Mark Lane Express says much English wheat has come to market in a more or less damp condition, but the change to drier weather will now enable threshing to proceed under more favorable circumstances. The agricultural season being far advanced, attention is now mainly directed to the ingathering of cereals in Scotland, where the state of the weather has caused, for some time past, no little anxiety. The rain has done wonders for the root crop and pastures. The publication of the agricultural returns for 1875-76, enables us to form a reliable idea as to the yield of home crops and the extent to which we shall be dependent for foreign supplies. These returns show a decline in the area of wheat planted of 378,000 acres from last year, and of 678,000 acres from the average area. The decline from last year, however, may be made up from the increased yield per acre and improved condition. The yield of the present crop is estimated at 10,600,000 quarters. With 800,000 quarters deducted for seed, there will remain 9,800,000 quarters for consumption. England will require in the coming year about 180,000,000 from stock in hand and foreign exportations. [illegible] of the deficiency in the home supply, much interest is centered in the American crop. The [illegible] with the local trade very steady, but without great activity, as buyers are acting with much caution. The supply and demand at this moment are pretty evenly counterbalanced. Other fine white wheats realized an occasional advance of a shilling per quarter; but the inquiry has not been brisk. Feeding stuffs are held firmly. In barley, oats and maize the trade is quiet but steady, and [illegible] continues very firm, while in [illegible] higher prices have been obtained.

LAND FOR IMMIGRANTS.

Choice Farms for Sale.

4,000 ACRES, IN QUANTITIES TO SUIT PURCHASERS.

230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Railroad Depot at Salem, all under cultivation, and suitable for grain or vegetables.

946 Acres, four miles southeast of Salem, on the railroad, with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county, with fine springs, consisting in part of the old Rector donation claim, on which I raised the past year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre. The first crop of oats ever raised on part of this land measured ninety-four bushels per acre, grain weighed and ground chained by Mr. Alfred Stanton, of Salem.

2,700 Acres of prairie and light brush land, with timber for farming purposes, bounded by the Willamette River for four miles, beautiful lake on the east, boat landings all along the river, commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette Valley to be purchased by a colony. To be sold from $15 to $25 per acre. This land will all be immediately resurveyed, and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels, to suit purchasers. It can be subdivided to the best possible advantage, and I can offer any person or persons, or colony of persons, desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette Valley, near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages, as well as most favorably located with respect to markets, greater advantages, on more favorable terms, than they can ever expect to realize again.
